THE FAIR AND EQUITABLE TREATMENT STANDARD:

A Survey of Recent Developments in the Law

J. CHRISTOPHER THOMAS, Q.C. is a lawyer and Chartered Arbitrator who has practiced for many years in the field of international trade and commercial law with emphasis on trade and investment regulation and dispute settlement. He has been counsel in many international disputes, in domestic administrative law procedures (anti-dumping and countervailing duty cases), and in contentious proceedings before the superior courts of Canada. He now acts primarily as an arbitrator in international investment, trade and commercial disputes. He is Editor of Investor-State LawGuide, an on-line research database which is being launched in February 2011. He was appointed Queen's Counsel in 2002 and has been designated a Chartered Arbitrator by the ADR Institute of Canada.

INTRODUCTION

One of the most commonly used substantive standards of treatment in investment treaties is the fair and equitable treatment standard. Treaties vary in terms of how they express the standard and thus the interpretation of one fair and equitable treatment clause may not be relevant to the interpretation of another. That said, investment tribunals often cite prior cases in support of their interpretations of the clause. This seminar explores how the standard has developed both in treaty-making practice and in the jurisprudence.

ABOUT THE CENTRE FOR INTERNATIONAL LAW (CIL)

The Centre for International Law (CIL) is based at the Bukit Timah campus of the National University of Singapore. CIL's mission is to enable Singapore and the Asia-Pacific region to play a more significant role in the promotion and development of international law and policy. The Centre's aim is to become the region's intellectual hub and thought leader for research on and teaching of international law and policy. The Director of CIL is Associate Professor Robert C Beckman and the Deputy Director is Dr Navin Raj. For more information, please visit the CIL website at <http://www.cil.nus.edu.sg> or email: cil.info@nus.edu.sg
