

ASEAN LAW ACADEMY CONFERENCE 2022: ASEAN in the Rules-based Global Order

Friday 28 January 2022
(on Zoom)

Call for Papers

EXTENDED Deadline for abstract submission: 29 December 2021

The Centre for International Law at the National University of Singapore is pleased to issue a call for papers for an online academic conference on ASEAN Law and Policy on 28 January 2022. The one-day Conference takes part during the ASEAN Law Academy Advanced Programme, which will be held from 24 January to 24 February 2022. To present at the conference, participants must also be registered for the ASEAN Law Academy Educator Programme (full or focused). Scholarships are available. For more information on the programmes please see our event page.

Theme and Objective

The Conference, themed 'The Rules-based ASEAN Community', seeks to identify the diverse issues emanating from and impacting upon ASEAN law and policy especially in the areas of politics and international relations, trade and investment, and socio-economic development in the region. The aim is to foster a community of scholars from the faculties of economics, law and political science who are interested in or working on various aspects of ASEAN Law and Policy, to come together to discuss our work.

Topics

The scope of the conference is open to any paper that addresses an aspect of the rules-based ASEAN Community including:

- ASEAN institutions
- ASEAN regional integration and comparative regional integration
- International economic law and development, trade and investment
- The impact of ASEAN Law and Policy on the member states and/or member state jurisdictions
- ASEAN foreign policy and relations
- ASEAN or ASEAN states' interaction in the following domains:
 - General public international law
 - International criminal law
 - Environment and climate change
 - Human rights
 - History and theory of international law
 - Development
 - Dispute settlement
 - Law of international organisations
 - Law of the sea

Ideas in Progress Series

Selected papers from the conference will be invited to be published on the CIL website as part of the Ideas in Progress paper series. The series seeks to contribute to the ASEAN intellectual community by collating papers in the dynamic and fluid “ideas” stage to generate conversations and hypotheses among fellow scholars and practitioners. The series can be accessed through the CIL Publications page.

Submission Deadline

We invite submissions of abstracts of not more than 500 words by 29 December 2022. Full drafts or works-in-progress should be submitted by 17 January 2022, so that discussants can prepare to respond to the papers. Please visit our event page for submissions and further details.

ASEAN Law Academy Educator Programme Alumni – Presenting at the Conference Only

Participants who have previously completed the Academy’s Educator Programme are welcome to only attend the Conference and present their paper/work-in-progress. Please email yvette.f@nus.edu.sg with your abstract and paper/work-in-progress by the deadlines above.
