

BIO

Munira Mustaffa is the founder, Executive Director, and principal consultant of Chasseur Group. She is also a non-resident fellow at the New Lines Institute for Strategy and Policy, a Washington, DC-based policy think tank, and a fellow at Verve Research, an independent research collective focusing on military-society relations in the Indo-Pacific region's political development. Since 2013, Munira has worked in various security sectors, including private, public, and military. She has provided commentary and appeared on media outlets such as Reuters, Vice, SCMP, Arab News, The Diplomat, The Wall Street Journal, Al-Jazeera, Benar News, and TRT World. Her work on terrorism, extremism, militancy, and media and information warfare has been published by institutions including the New Lines Institute, NATO's STRATCOMCOE, GNET, and ASPI. Munira holds a master's degree from University College London (UCL) in the United Kingdom.