

Huan Ting is the 2nd Director of the Information Policy Division in the Ministry of Communications and Information (MCI) where he helps to build a safer, more resilient digital society in Singapore. He was part of the team that worked on the Online Safety Act in 2022 to strengthen protections for Singapore users against online harms. In his current role, he is also responsible for tackling online falsehoods and misinformation.

Prior to MCI, Huan Ting was the Special Assistant to the Minister for Home Affairs & Law. He also spent more than a decade in law enforcement with the Singapore Police Force where he helped to make Singapore one of the safest places in the world. He last held command as a Deputy Assistant Commissioner of Police.
